Sunday Reflection

Rewriting the story

Freedom is not always what it appears to be. The man in Mark 10:17-30 was free to be rich, but because of his riches he was not free to be happy. As free as he may have seemed to others, he knew in the depth of his heart that he was a slave, so he went away sad. Matthew describes him as very rich but his fear of letting go left him enslaved. The message of the story is one that crosses time, cultures, and even religions. It is a message opposed to the promises of Madison Avenue. Socrates claimed happiness by never collecting that which he would be afraid to lose. Jesus has reminded us that the poor in spirit will inherit the earth. It may be good for us to put ourselves in the place of the Rich Man in Mark 10 and rewrite the story, at least the ending.

Fr. Kevin's Cluttered Desk

This Thanksgiving I was sent a lovely prayer that I would like to share with all of you. It made me stop and think for a while and I hope it does the same for you.

Father God:

We keep forgetting all of those who lived before us.

We keep forgetting those who lived and worked in this community.

We keep forgetting those who prayed and sang hymns in this church before we were born.

We keep forgetting what our fathers have done for us.

We commit the sin, Lord, of assuming that everything begins with us.

We drink from wells we did not find,

We eat food from farmland we did not develop.

We enjoy freedoms which we have not earned,

We worship in churches which we did not build,

We live in communities that we did not establish.

This day, make us grateful for our heritage.

Turn our minds to those who lived in another day.

Today we need to feel our oneness with those of every generation, whose faith and works have enriched our lives.

We need to learn from them in order that our faith will be as vital, our commitment as sincere, our worship as alive, our fellowship as deep, as many of the devout and faithful who lived in another time and place.

- Prayer found on a wall in an ancient church in New Brunswick

Peace Fr. Kevin
